THE MARSHALL PROJECT

Set within the home of Zoe and Benji Marshall and their son, The Marshall Project comprises a stunning ensuite bathroom with both the walls and floors rendered in Venetian plaster. To create a soft, seamless, all-encompassing effect reminiscent of a day spa, Pastellone was used across the entirety of the ensuite. It is the finish of choice in minimal spaces. With a soft cream finish, the tactile nature and subtle variation of Pastellone work to add visual interest to neutral and minimal spaces, catching the light and imbuing the space with warmth.

In The Marshall Project, each element complements its surroundings. A versatile and timeless base of Pastellone Venetian plaster acts as the ideal starting point for a chic and elegant bathroom. An oversized vanity as well as the dual 'his-and-her' sink setup and bathtub feature a fluted finish, which aids in promoting design cohesion across the space. Across the ensuite, tonal variation is employed to prevent the space from feeling flat; the palest pink on the vanity complements the wooden-look finish of the dual sinks. Brass and nickel hardware act as the jewellery of the bathroom, rounding out the luxurious effect.

VENETIAN PLASTER GALLERY ADELAIDE COLLABORATES WITH SHEETH

Venetian Plaster Gallery Adelaide collaborated with Sydney builders SHEETH Projects on the Billini Store in Marion Westfields South Australia.

Stucco Italiano's Marmorino Medium was used to create this stylish finish. The aesthetics of this space boast elegance and simplicity. The clean lines, seamless continuity and monochromatic palette highlight minimalist design.

Characterised by sweeping arches, a bespoke niche wall, the final product is stunning yet functional. It has just the right amount of eccentricity to command your attention.

P a r r a m a t t a

Boasting sophistication and simplicity, this Mediterranean inspired venue was one of our favourite projects this year. Working with James Harb from Regera Group and Jad Nemhetallah the restaurant owner, we were able to bring the flair of the Mediterranean life to Parramatta.

This design was achieved by using Stucco Lava. The natural materials, light tones and subtle texture complement the white beachy fitout.

SOFT SEAMLESS SIMPLE ERRAY PROJECT

Venetian Plaster Gallery collaborated with interior designer Sally Haddad to bring her design concept to life. Using Stucco Italiano's Venetian plaster we were able to achieve this soft seamless finish. This space is defined by simplicity, clean lines and plenty of lighting.

To continue the design concept, we created a custom-made counter with soft, round finishes and texture. The counter was made with extra storage designed by Sally Haddad as a storage solution. This maintained the minimalist feel of the store.
